NEW, RARE, AND GOOD OLD IRISES

Appreciation

I take this opportunity to say to all my many customers that I greatly appreciate their generous expressions of satisfaction at Treholme quality and service given them the past year. My special effort to provide better plants of the world's best irises for less than they can be secured anywhere else has evidently been appreciated. A large part, in fact my greatest remuneration, has come through serving to the best of my time and means, those who have so generously favored me with their business. If there are those who were not entirely satisfied, it was because I did not know it. It is an established Treholme policy that a deal is never closed until all reasonable customers are satisfied. Let me know how previous orders pleased you if you have not already done so.

New Introductions

In accordance with my policy of adding each year the best introductions from this and other countries, I am offering varieties that have not been previously sold or widely distributed. In selecting the new varieties which are offered, I have paid particular attention that they be of new or distinct colorings as well as to the other qualities that are required to make good garden irises, including: Vigorous with good growing habits, strong well-branched stalks, free-flowering over a long period, and with a good firm texture which can be relied upon to withstand the most trying weather conditions. There are also some very fine exhibition varieties offered for the first time in this country. They are characterized by their wonderful color, size, form, branching and distinctive qualities that place them well at the top of the list for exhibition purposes as well as for specimen clumps or for garden use.

I am not listing for sale all of the varieties which have been introduced. You will find listed practically all of the new varieties thought to be worth having or that are improvements on other varieties. Practically all of the new varieties are carefully observed annually and those thought to be especially meritorious are secured for trial and observation. If you do not find a new introduction in this list you can rest assured that it is either not worth while, or is still under observation. Or if you do not find all of the older varieties previously listed you will know that they have been superseded in my estimation and discarded.

I have more than 500 new varieties under observation in addition to Treholme seedlings, many of which will be added to this list as soon as they have satisfied me that they are worthy of distribution and availability of stock permits. If you are interested in a variety which does not appear in the price list, write me about it. I probably can supply you or tell you where the variety may be secured to best advantage.

The 1933 Supplement

I have endeavored to give in the supplement to my "Iris Lover's Guide" which is issued separately, an accurate yet practical description of these new varieties with tentative garden and exhibition ratings, as I have observed them since their introduction. This evaluation, subject to modification as they demonstrate their good qualities or faults, if any, is my comparative estimation of their worth. I have been requested many times to recommend the best varieties in the different color groups for exhibition and garden purposes. Obviously the garden and exhibition rating indicates my selections automatically. I should emphasize that price or novelty has not influenced me in the least in making the ratings. I have given special consideration to the growing habits and hardiness of the different varieties. Color has been an important consideration as have also the factors of average height, branching, size, form, poise, effectiveness, freedom of bloom, substance and distinctive qualities. This and much other information of value is given in the last edition

RETAIL PRICE LIST

For complete description, exhibition and garden rating, average height, season of bloom, etc., of all varieties, together with other information not readily available, see my 932 Iris Lovers' Guide and Descriptive Catalogue, "New, Rare and Good Old Irises." It is free to those who purchased iris the past year. To others it is 25 cents. If you purchase iris this year to the amount of $2.50, you will receive a copy free. Or if you purchase a copy now and buy iris later this year, you will receive a credit of any 50 cent iris selected from this list. For quantity prices see pages 5, 6, 14 and 15; wholesale price list available to dealers only.

TALL AND INTERMEDIATE BEARDED IRIS

(May and June Flowering)

This group may be said to be the most satisfactory and easily grown group of plants now in cultivation. They are unexcelled for brilliancy of color, very hardy and free flowering and excellent for cutting. In the effort to have bloom in the garden throughout the year, May-flowering Irises should not be overlooked. During late seasons this group provides the only memorial Day flower to be found in quantity. They are most useful and dependable, being of medium height and early to bloom. They are especially useful as borders for tulip beds. The intermediate varieties are from 18 to 28 inches in height being taller than the Dwarfs, bloom ten days later and a week or more before the Tall Bearded varieties. They are, therefore, intermediate in size as well as in height and, for the most part, in season of bloom. The Tall Bearded varieties begin blooming in late May and bloom for six weeks most seasons. They vary in height from 30 inches up to 50 inches or more.

ECONOMY COLLECTIONS

The 100 most popular varieties of Tall Bearded irises has been announced by the American Iris Society. The list published in Bulletin No. 47, the April issue, is the result of a recently conducted "popularity contest." It is an expression of the opinion of 71 accredited judges. I concur in most of the selections made. Evidently some of the judges have not grown or have not become acquainted with some of the most recent introductions. If they had, there would undoubtedly have been several important changes. It is a list of very fine varieties and I am glad to offer them to the iris loving public at a real saving.

While it is contrary to my general policy to offer collections, yet I am doing so for the first time since the Society has taken the initiative to perform a real service to iris lovers by recommending selections in the different color groups. The collection prices which I am quoting save about one-third the retail price. The 50 most popular varieties are listed in collections A-1 to 5; the 50 second most popular varieties are listed in collections B-1 to 5.

To accommodate those who may already have some of the varieties in these collections, and who at the same time wish to avail themselves of the very special prices quoted, substitutions may be made in the following manner only: SUBSTITUTE ANY VARIETY OF THE SAME PRICE FOR ANY VARIETY WHICH YOU HAVE OR DO NOT WANT. For example, if you have Los Angeles, priced at $2.00 each, you may select any $2.00 variety you prefer. I have a lot of very fine plants of practically all varieties offered and will endeavor to supply the varieties you prefer.

NOTE: To reduce the number to 50 varieties, Coronation, Mary Barnett, and Santa Barbara have been omitted from collections "A"; and Polar King, Easter, Morn, El Tovar, and Citronella from collections "B". These varieties will be supplied upon request if desired in preference to other varieties in the respective collections at proportionate prices.

(Please order collections by number.)

MAKE YOUR OWN COLLECTIONS

It is recommended that you make your own collections. By doing so you will avoid the disappointment of getting varieties you already have or do not want. The quantity prices on pages 33 and 34 should enable individuals, Garden Clubs or other groups to make a substantial saving and at the same time obtain the varieties desired. While the prices quoted are already unusually low considering the quality of plants offered a further saving of one-third the retail price may be made as indicated below, if 3 each of 50 different varieties can be used:

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at 20 cents each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $10.00, a saving of $5.00.

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at 25 cents each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $12.50, a saving of $6.25.

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at 35 cents each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $17.50, a saving of $8.25.

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at 50 cents each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $25.00, a saving of $12.50.

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at 75 cents each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $37.50, a saving of $18.75.

Select 25 different varieties your choice, priced at $1.00 each and I will send you 3 of each or 75 plants for $50.00, a saving of $25.00.

If you are unable to make up the collections desired at a price that is attractive, submit a list of the varieties you want and the number of each and I will be glad to quote you a special price on the collection.

BARGAIN LIST

1 Cent Sale While They Last

The following varieties of Tall Bearded irises will be sold, one, 20 cents; two, one variety for 21 cents; five of one variety for 50 cents; 25 of one variety for $1.50; the wholesale price to dealers will be one-half the wholesale rate for 20 cent retail varieties.

The list includes many beautiful and attractive varieties in almost any desired color. I have a number of personal favorites in the list. In the absence of the newer and better varieties they would still be very desirable. After years of the most thorough trial and observation, however, I feel that further propagation is not justified. While they are no longer recommended, they are offered at very low prices to those who desire them.

DWARF IRISES

(April Flowering—Pumila)

The Dwarf varieties are being used in ornamental beds, either of a single coloring or with a harmonious combination of coloring. Their greatest usefulness, however, probably is as low-growing borders for other plants. They are also used in rock gardens for which, on account of their ability to withstand droughts, they are especially well adapted. They increase rapidly and soon fill their part to good advantage.

SIBERIAN IRISES

Among the most elegant of all Irises and among the easiest to grow are the varieties of this group. They are among the best for cutting or for massing by the waterside. The flowers are various shades of blue and purple, with white or pink markings and pure white. They succeed best in moist locations.

MISCELLANEOUS IRISES

(Species and Varieties)

There are a great many species, sub-species and varieties of Irises. I have grown many of this group for a number of years. I have imported them from England and France a number of times. Some difficulty is encountered in getting some of these new varieties to establish themselves. I give them very similar treatment to the other groups, except where noted. They require somewhat different treatment as to season to dig, divide, reset, and ship, which information is given to those interested. This group contains many of my favorites. Most of these irises are especially adapted for use in rock gardens.

JAPANESE IRISES

For a richly colored display in the border or for specimen clumps, Japanese Irises are highly recommended. They bloom after the bearded iris and continue for several weeks. They are excellent for cutting and for garden decoration. The colors are very striking, being white, blue, purple, red and combinations of these colors, beautifully harmonized. While they require somewhat different treatment than the bearded varieties, yet they are hardy and most satisfactory. They require a sunny location and a rich soil with plenty of moisture, but where water does not stand. The addition of a little peat moss to clay soils will be very beneficial. Since they do best in slightly acid soil, no lime should be used; in locations where there is danger from heaving during freezing weather a light mulch may be applied the first season after planting.

I have been growing a large number of the best named varieties of Japanese iris for many years in my attempts to classify and rate, both for exhibition and landscape purposes. While this work is progressing I have accumulated a surplus of many varieties that I can now offer at unusual prices. They are first class plants in every respect and up to the Treholme Standard and Quality.

Delivery will begin about September 15th, or earlier if desired. The danger from dry weather has usually passed by that date and they can be planted without loss. Japanese Iris are quite hardy. They do not stand dry weather at planting time, however, as well as the bearded varieties. If weather is dry when planted they should be watered frequently until established.

DUTCH AND SPANISH IRISES

For several years I have been growing Dutch and Spanish Iris. The growing of these types has given me great pleasure. They come in pure white and all shades from white, through red, yellow, blue and to deep purple, some being spotted, splashed and mottled most artistically, in a wonderful harmony of colors. They are excellent for cutting. If cut in the bud they will keep for a long time in water. They blend splendidly with other flowers. For best effect they should be planted in clumps of one or two dozen, or better, in rows for ease of cultivation which they should have at frequent intervals. They are well adapted for planting in the hardy border, and for forcing in the green house or in pots.

They are very hardy when given proper treatment. They do not do well in a hot, dry situation. They thrive in cool, moist soil that is well enriched with compost or well rotted manure. Planted in September they will bloom the next spring soon after the narcissus season.

I lift the bulbs when mature, which is usually before the tops begin to die down in late July. As soon as dug, they are spread out in trays in a dry location where the air passes over them freely. I plant them back again in early October, setting 6 inches apart and about 4 to 5 inches deep, depending upon the size; the larger bulbs being planted five inches deep in light, sandy soil. They are planted about four inches deep if the soil is clay-loam. The soil is pressed firmly over them. A loose mulch will be helpful if the soil is inclined to heave them out in winter.

I have confidence that these irises will be much more generally grown in a few years. A little patience in learning their habits and requirements of soil and climate will be well rewarded. I have heard some complaints that a few bulbs are lost each year. My losses, however, are no greater than with tulips, gladioli or other bulbs.

The following varieties are among the best that are now in existence. The prices are for the large, first size blooming bulbs. The size of the bulbs vary somewhat according to the variety. Plant a few well chosen varieties under favorable conditions and they will be a source of much enjoyment.

PEONIES OF SPECIAL MERIT

When you plant a peony you make a permanent investment. It is one of the most satisfactory and easy to grow of all flowers. I have a collection of more than 250 varieties which includes most of the best peonies in the world. I have been collecting them for more than 15 years. During this time I have made a study of varieties in much the same manner as of iris. Classification of certain varieties is extremely difficult and slow. Tentative exhibition, garden and commercial ratings are given in the 1932 "Iris Lovers' Guide." A number of changes will undoubtedly be made after further trial and observation. The following varieties are offered in three to five eye standard divisions at most unusual prices.

of "New, Rare and Good Old Irises," an Iris Lover's Guide and descriptive catalogue. If you are a customer of mine and have purchased Iris during the past year you have already or will soon receive a copy, to others the price is 25 cents. It will be sent free with all orders. If a copy is purchased at 25 cents and an order amounting to $2.50 is placed later, any 50 cent Iris may be selected free. Garden clubs or other groups may order together and obtain 10 copies for $2.00.

Selecting Varieties

It is as a rule best to select several roots of a variety rather than one root of each, whether the object be to produce specimen stalks or for the effect on the landscape. The effect is more pleasing when planted in clumps of 3 or 5, each variety or group of varieties being kept separate and so arranged that the colors harmonize. Almost any color effect desired may be secured by careful selection. Varieties that will harmonize with most any other flower or surrounding may be secured. It is possible to secure satisfactory results for landscape purposes by selecting from the moderately priced varieties. If the best results are desired, it is well to keep in mind that as a rule the higher priced varieties are improvements over the cheaper ones in one or more respects. As a rule the size, color, form, substance, vigor, branching, number of bloom and length of flowering period are among the points in which they usually excel.

Something for the Future

For many years I have been collecting and breeding irises as a hobby. I have had a wonderful time doing it. Thousands of crosses have been made. Some of the seedlings produced have been decided improvements on existing varieties. Many of the special crosses have resulted in some very fine flowers of wonderful form and a substance lasting long in bloom over a long period—on plants that are vigorous, well-branched and free-flowering with distinct and most delightful color combinations. Among them are some gems in the Pumila group. During all these years I have introduced only a few varieties, largely because most of them have not approached my standard. On the other hand, some of them are so good that I have registered the names with the American Iris Society, expecting to observe them further and if they continue to measure up so well in comparison with varieties already on the market, I expect to introduce the best of them to the iris loving public at moderate prices as soon as availability of stock permits. To allay the fears of a few enthusiasts who have been much alarmed that I have named these varieties and possibly would introduce or put all of them on the market, but more particularly to emphasize what has been stated many times as a definite policy:

They have been named for my own pleasure and convenience, and only those of outstanding merit will ever be introduced. Only two varieties have been introduced, and both of them, among others still under observation, were recommended for Honorable Mention by accredited judges to the American Iris Society. One of them, "My Maryland," which was awarded an Honorable Mention by the Society in 1930, was recently declared one of the three best varieties introduced and put on the market in 1930, according to information compiled by a breeder and critical judge of iris, from a questionnaire that he sent to prominent iris dealers, breeders and others throughout the United States. I feel sure some of these varieties will be awaited with unusual interest.

Your Opportunity

I am offering many varieties of irises at unusual prices. It is a rare opportunity for commercial growers and collectors to secure many varieties that are new, scarce and seldom offered for sale. Many varieties will soon be sold out at the prices quoted.

Quantity Prices

You are urged to compare the prices in this list with the prices of any other grower in this or any other country. Instead of developing extensive or elaborate display gardens, an effort has been made to provide better plants for less money than can be secured anywhere else in the world. This has been made possible because of a carefully planned system of growing the plants. The purchaser receives the benefit, as the result of this economy is reflected in the unusual prices quoted. Especially is this true when 5 or more plants of a variety, or when 8, 15, 25, 50 or more different varieties can be used. Garden Clubs or other groups as well as individuals are urged to take advantage of the saving as indicated in the following price schedules. See list of Special Bargains also, pages 11 to 16.

It has been my policy to offer plants at the lowest price possible, commensurate with quality, rather than offer collections in which there might be varieties not desired or even varieties of questionable value, simply because a surplus might be available. I will be glad to help make up collections if desired, provided the following schedules are not sufficient.

The quantity price of any variety is ascertained by reference to the retail price and then from the table obtaining the price in lots of 5 and 25 or more. As an example of the saving, if 25 plants of one variety priced at $6.00 each were purchased, the price would be $4.50 each, or a saving of $37.50; if 5 plants of one variety priced at $20.00 each were purchased, the price would be $18.00 each or a saving of $10.00. Thus a saving of $47.50 would be made on the purchase of 30 plants, and so on for the varieties at different prices throughout the list.

Quantity Price Schedule

When One Each of As Many As 8 to 50 or More Different Varieties Are Purchased

Since it is contrary to my wishes to sell you a "pig in a poke," which is virtually what many collections are, not knowing what varieties you already have or those you do not want, and yet, desiring to give you the greatest possible satisfaction and at the same time enable you to make a real saving, the following price schedule is offered. For example, when 50 different varieties, priced at $.50 each, are purchased, the price is $.45 each, as shown in column 1, or a saving of $5.00; when 25 different varieties, all priced at $3.00 each are purchased, the price is $2.70 each, as shown in column 2, or a saving of $7.50; if 15 different varieties all priced at $20.00 each are purchased, the price is $18.00 each, as shown in column 3, a saving of $30.00; or if 8 different varieties all priced at $10.00 each are purchased, the price is $9.50, as shown in column 4, a saving of $4.00; or a total saving on the 98 plants of $46.00.

Order Early

All plants are offered subject to being in stock and not sold upon receipt of order. I have a good stock of most varieties but of a few the supply is limited. Of many of the older varieties and some of the very recent introductions stock is extremely scarce and limited. The supply will soon be exhausted at the very low prices quoted. Prices are net for one plant and terms are cash, unless otherwise arranged. Orders will be filled in the order received. Retail orders take precedence over wholesale. Write names plainly and give shipping directions carefully. Keep a copy of your order. Shipments will be made during July, August and September, unless otherwise requested. Since the prices are so low, do not ask me to fill an order for less than $2.00 if it is to be delivered, unless 25 cents is added for postage. All orders will be carefully packed without extra charge. Retail orders amounting to $2.00 or more will be delivered free, either by express or parcel post anywhere in the United States. Foreign delivery at cost.

Cash Discounts

Cash discounts allowed on retail orders received and paid for before July 1st, amounting to less than $50.00, 5 per cent; $50.00 or over, 10 per cent; $100.00 or over, 15 per cent. This discount does not apply to collections on pages 7 to 10. Other benefits of equal value you will receive from placing your order at once are:

Extra Quality—from first selection of plants.

Better Service—by avoiding rush period.

No disappointments—due to sold out varieties.

Save money—by taking advantage of discounts.

Special prices will be quoted on 500 or more of one variety, and large orders made up of a small number of many varieties. Wholesale price list will be sent to Landscape Architects, Educational and Research Institutions, Nurserymen and other dealers only.

Guarantee

Roots sent out will be average size or larger for the variety represented. They are grown under my personal supervision. I personally fill all orders. Original plants of practically all varieties have been received direct from the originator, insuring true stock. The greatest possible care is then exercised to keep all varieties accurately labeled and true to name. Certificate of nursery inspection will accompany each shipment. All plants are guaranteed to reach you in good condition. That is about all I can do. I can not guarantee plants to grow. I will send only first class roots and must depend upon the purchaser to grow them properly. If not entirely satisfactory upon receipt, I will cheerfully refund the purchase price, provided plants are returned at once. If for any other reason they are not satisfactory, please advise at once and you can depend upon me to adjust same. Remember the deal is not closed until all reliable customers are satisfied. Planting instructions accompany each shipment.

What Others Say

Iris have been shipped to practically every State and several foreign countries. I have received many generous expressions of the quality of service rendered—big, healthy, vigorous plants, carefully packed to arrive in good condition, and at prices almost unequaled.

A grower in Oregon wrote upon receipt of shipment: "We here in the Northwest boast of big, husky rhizomes, but you have us beaten. Never saw finer plants and in such perfect condition."

From Virginia a grower wrote: "I want to thank you for the fine plants you sent me. They were in perfect condition. You were most liberal in filling my order."

A grower in Michigan said: "I want to tell you what I think of the kind of plants you sent me. They were wonderful. I appreciate your generous treatment."

A Missouri gardener said: "In my twenty years' buying irises, I have never received better plants, especially of the new varieties."

A specialist in Texas wrote: "You have made many friends down here by your prompt service, fine plants and liberality."

A New England iris specialist wrote me: "You are doing a wonderful thing for the iris trade to send out such fine plants at such remarkable prices."

A purchaser in Illinois wired: "Plants just arrived. They are all fine. Duplicate order earliest convenience."

An Iowa grower wrote: "Rhizomes reached me today and I want to thank you for your generosity."

A grower in California wrote: "I am glad to inform you that my order of iris arrived in first class condition yesterday afternoon (October 11th). And they also are the best appearing ones I have ever received. They should all come along fine and bloom next spring. Would you inform me if I placed orders for iris this coming season from the people who see my gardens, will you furnish me more at the prices quoted this year?"

It has been a genuine pleasure to have such expressions of approval.

An "Iris Lovers' Guide"

For full descriptions of varieties, care and planting instructions or other information refer to my 1932 Iris Lovers' Guide, as it has been referred to by many, "New, Rare and Good Old Irises." About 1,000 varieties have been accurately described and rated. Among other things will be the name of originator and date of introduction, principal awards, average height of bloom stalk, season of bloom from very early to very late, both garden and exhibition rating, how to select, plant and care for irises, and other information not otherwise readily available.

I have received many favorable comments on this endeavor. One grower stated in his catalogue: "In view of my own disappointment in getting out the list that I had hoped to, I take pleasure in recommending to you an Iris list which is the most complete and valuable for descriptions of any I have ever seen. It is issued by Earl Wooddell Sheets. . . . It sells for 25 cents but is worth a dollar to anyone who is really interested in iris, for the information it contains."

Another grower wrote: "You have done more to help the commercial iris game than any other similar effort in a dozen years." And another: "The 25 cents I paid for your 'Iris Lovers' Guide' was the best iris investment I have ever made," and so on by the dozen.

The Bulletin of the American Iris Society, No. 30, January, 1929, states:

"For the real collector . . . the new Catalogue of the Treholme Gardens offer the most comprehensive lists I have run across, of recent years. Mr. Sheets with more space at his disposal gives good reasons for even the poorly rated. For the student his descriptions are markedly thorough and helpful. His private ratings on exhibition and garden value average no higher than those in the symposium and though my experience with some varieties varies from his reports that is only to be expected in a different clime or garden. He gives height accurately and is the first in this country at least to record seasons from very early to very late. This is in itself a real contribution even though it records the facts in only one possibly small district. The premiums offered to customers who become members of the society are only approached (by one other). Whatever the actual returns to the society may be we owe much to their generous expression of interest."

An official of the American Iris Society wrote: "I find your 'Iris Lovers' Guide' indispensable in the show room and in the selection of varieties for exhibitions as well as for all other purposes throughout the year."

Another said: "I appreciate your exhibition and garden rating information. Your appraisal of the new ones especially is invaluable. It has saved and made me many dollars."

The 1932 edition contains more than 250 new varieties and omits nearly as many that I consider have been superseded or are no longer needed. If you are a customer of mine and have purchased iris during the past year, you have already received a copy or I will gladly send you one together with the 1933 supplement upon request, to others the price is 25 cents. Do not send coin. Send P. O. Money Order or stamps to avoid possible loss. A copy will be sent free with all orders. If a copy is purchased at 25 cents and an order amounting to $2.50 is placed later, any 50-cent iris may be selected free.

I have added Japanese, Dutch and Spanish iris this year and have given tentative ratings. Peonies have been added also, with exhibition, garden and commercial ratings given for the first time.

Treholme Gardens are located within sight of the National Capital near College Park, Md. Visitors are always welcome, but by appointment only.
